Mr Denis Cox

28/8/09

Dear Mr Cox,

I would like to thank you for your letter we received on 20th Oct. 1957 regarding the design of your rocketship. I apologise for the late response to your letters. You will appreciate, that as you requested "A Top Scientist" that uses the "WOOMERA ROCKET RANGE" it took a little while for your letter to get to me and in addition, it took some time to provide due consideration to your ideas...

...I think that the most interesting statement you made in your letter was "YOU PUT IN OTHER DETAILS". You were clearly going to be an excellent Program Manager, by providing those that know best the freedom in the matter to get it right. Furthermore, you did have your priorities right as "AUSTRALIAN MARKINGS" are the most prominent feature of the design.

I remember as a boy designing rocket ships and planes at about the same time that you wrote your letter... My one hope is that we do a sufficiently good job that is worthy of the inspiration, dreams and hopes that you provided in your letter those many years ago.

Once again, thank you for your letter.

(Signed)

Question No. 1

XV. PRESENTING AN ARGUMENT - (10x1=10 Marks)

Find the correct order of sentences.

Compare and contrast

DOLPHINS AND SHARKS

1	Sharks! Sharks have several rows of teeth, whereas dolphins have just a single row.
2	Dolphins are called social because they are playful with people and have helped many struggling swimmers to shore. A shark, if it finds a struggling swimmer, would happily make a meal out of him!
3	Sharks are fish, they breathe through gills and their skeleton is made of cartilage (softer than bone).
4	Though sharks may have more teeth that may help them in hunting, dolphins are much more intelligent and social than sharks.
5	Let us now compare dolphins with sharks....
6	This exercise is all about the two sea animals: sharks and dolphins.
7	Dolphins are mammals, they breathe through lungs and their skeleton is made of bones.
8	Let us first talk about the sharks.
9	Now that we know only dolphins have bones, who do you think has many teeth?
10	Though they have the same side fins, dorsal fins and stream-lined bodies we can conclude that they are both actually quite different!
